

RUMENCO ACQUIRES NET-TEX INDUSTRIES LIMITED

Specialist ruminant nutrition supplement manufacturer Rumenco has acquired Net-Tex Industries Limited.

Commenting on the deal, Rumenco chairman, Frank Heap, said the acquisition of Net-Tex Industries would complement their existing business, whilst also allowing Rumenco to develop additional markets.

“There is a very good level of strategic fit between the two companies. Both are successful manufacturers of different but complementary ruminant product ranges. In addition, Net-Tex is active in equine and pet markets.”

Both Rumenco and Net-Tex will continue to be independent businesses, and it is foreseen that there will be significant potential for both companies to develop their services and respective product ranges for the agricultural merchant and distribution trade.

Notes to editors

1. Rumenco is a market leader in the ruminant feed supplement market. It is a successful company with strong brands. The well-established Rumevite, Supalyx and Lifeline products, in particular, are trusted and valued by livestock farmers in the UK. The company has forged robust partnership relationships with the agricultural merchant trade based on its branded products and contract manufacture.
2. Established in 1983, Net-Tex Industries manufactures and supplies a wide range of animal nutrition and husbandry products. Known for its COL-LATE cattle and sheep products (drenches; colostrum products; scour pastes; udder salves) in the ruminant market, Net-Tex is also active in pet and equine sectors. The company also markets an insecticide range and sells a portfolio of aerosol products into the general automotive and domestic fire and stove markets.
